

SAMPLE AFFIDAVIT FOR LOGBOOK DISCREPANCIES

Description of Discrepancies: A comprehensive self-audit of my physical logs against my digital records revealed a nominal variance of 5.7 hours affecting Multi-Engine Land (MEL), Turbine, Second-in-Command (SIC), Cross-Country, and Total Time. This specific variance was entirely due to the systemic difference between automated ACARS flight tracking data and standard manual rounding entry methods. Additionally, a minor variance of 0.5 hours was identified in night flight time tracking. Separately, an omitted three-hour flight from early in my time at ABC Airlines was identified and corrected directly within the physical logbook's final ledger remarks to align the records.

Actions Taken to Resolve Discrepancies: I conducted a thorough, line-by-line manual reconciliation of all historical flight entries and logbook columns. To resolve the tracking variances, I isolated the systemic ACARS rounding differences across the affected columns and audited individual night legs to ensure precise tracking. To resolve the omitted flight, I verified company records and entered a formal correction line in the remarks section of the physical logbook, ensuring it was accurately accounted for in the digital master log. Following this audit, I engaged a professional service to transcribe these verified records into a clean, standardized digital master log.

Outcome and Reconciliation: To ensure absolute mathematical integrity and a complete, accurate representation of my experience, my flight logs have been fully corrected. The digital master record has been adjusted upward by 4.0 hours across the affected operational categories and by 0.5 hours for night time to accurately credit the verified hours earned. The digital master record is now completely accurate, verified, and locked.
